To whom it may concern:

In an effort to comply with the European Union's Regulation on chemicals and their safe use (EC 1907/2006, which is known as the REACH Directive), Delta confirms that we do not incorporate, above the maximum allowances, the Substances of Very High Concern (SVHC's), and that they are not present in the products and/or materials provided by our organization. The European Union's European Chemical Agency (ECHA) has determined that these substances involve health and environment risks.

In addition, Delta Electronics Mfg. Corp. is committed to making our customer's compliance with REACH as simple and straight forward as possible for all our products. We have determined that none of our products contain the [174] SVHC substances listed on the candidate list.

Sincerely,

Mark Reagan
